Value Added Course in Sociology of Social Movements

Subject Code: : 23UGVASOC02

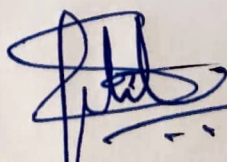

Course outcome

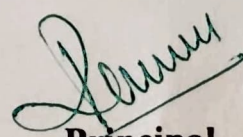

At the end of the course, students should be able to distinguish the central principles of different perspectives in the sociology of social movements and relate them to specific historical and empirical contexts. The students will learn the necessity of Social reform movements introduced by great humanitarian leaders in India. . Students should be able to distinguish a phenomenon as social movement from other cognate political phenomena. Understand the dynamics and motivations of individuals and groups participating in social movements and identify reasons for success or failure of social movements.

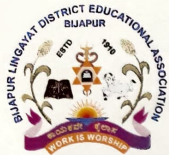

identify, analyse and evaluate some common examples of the learning that adults undertake through participation in progressive political and social movements; review, discuss and evaluate different analytical and theoretical perspectives on learning in social movements. Identify and critically analyse specific case studies on learning in one or more social movements. Integrate and apply social movement learning theories, concepts and methods to undertake an investigation of social movement learning in a particular area of interest. Apply theoretical and conceptual knowledge to critically evaluate the impact of social movement learning research in the era of globalisation.
